Young Rembrandts Kindles Creativity of Youth Artists in Kenosha and Racine

September 14, 2018

KENOSHA and RACINE, Wis. – Young Rembrandts has etched its name as Kenosha and Racine’s leading childhood art enrichment program with the recent reopening of a territory that brings its proprietary art education curriculum to more kids in Kenosha and Racine.

Now under the local ownership of Jordana Stark, the Young Rembrandts territory serves the areas of Kenosha and Racine. This territory builds on the momentum of a sensational national campaign celebrating the brand’s 30th anniversary in 2018, positioning Young Rembrandts to become the recognized leader in art education in the area. The location offers programming at schools, community centers and other local facilities for students aged 3½ to 12 years old.

“I have always wanted to run a business that had the power to expand the value of the arts to more kids and families across Kenosha and Racine,” said Stark. “As art classes and budgets have been cut in many schools and communities across Wisconsin, we know how important it is that Young Rembrandts continues to provide kids with the opportunity to grow their skills and knowledge outside of the classroom. I am excited to continue to share the program with families in the area and make a mark on the communities of Kenosha and Racine.”

A unique art enrichment program that solely focuses on cognitive development through drawing, Young Rembrandts is based on the belief that when foundational art skills are taught to preschoolers and elementary students, there is a strong correlation between that involvement in the arts and future strong academic performance and personal achievement.

“Every time we open a territory, we have the opportunity to showcase the passion and dedication our franchisees bring to the students and communities they serve – I am confident that Jordana will continue this legacy,” said Bette Fetter, founder and CEO of Young Rembrandts. “We’re confident that she will be an outstanding member of the Young Rembrandts family, and her commitment to teaching local children will continue to make the Kenosha-Racine territory a crucial partner in helping children develop cognitively and discover their inner artist.”

The Kenosha-Racine location is part of the brand’s strategic growth initiative, as Young Rembrandts targets 20 to 25 more signed agreements through 2019.

Through its unique methodology that gives kids the confidence to create skilled artwork, Young Rembrandts helps boost cognitive development, hand-eye coordination, spatial learning and critical thinking skills. Unlike many other childhood art enrichment programs, Young Rembrandts provides students with a tangible takeaway project with each lesson. Students are able to learn a new technique and complete an exceptional piece of artwork within a single class period.
